

Hello, I am Justin

Singapore-based, Communication Designer

Justin is a young designer who constantly strives to explore new possibilities by experimenting with ideas that had not been touched before. He believes in good design that is practical, adaptable and needs to be universally understood.

Largely basing his designs on user experience, he aims to create a system of intuitive yet efficient products for all to use without any trouble. Also an avid backpacker, he travels yearly to explore the unbeaten tracks to observe local design and understand its culture, and identity.

In love with being outdoors, he aims to ascend a mountain every year, a thousand meters at each time. Justin is presently enrolled in Lasalle College of the Arts, under its Bachelor of Arts (HONS) Design Communication Degree Programme, where he is currently in Year Two. In his free time, he spends his time in the kitchen whipping out great food and doodling in his sketchbook.
